

ATLANTA METRO

THE ECONOMIC HUB OF THE SOUTH

Equinix Atlanta is home to more than 180 companies in our International Business Exchange™ (IBX®) data centers, including a choice of 35+ network and 40+ cloud and IT service providers. That means our customers can access unique digital ecosystems and interconnection-first solutions to deliver superior products and services with the required speed, performance and security to thrive at the digital edge.

Known as the economic center in the Southern U.S., the Atlanta metropolitan area has a population of 5.8 million people and an array of high-powered global businesses. It has the third-largest concentration of Fortune 500 companies in the U.S.¹ and is a hub for commercial, telecommunications and infrastructure industries. It's also one of the world's top 10 financial centers and the headquarters of the Atlanta Stock Exchange, Atlanta Board Options Exchange and Atlanta Mercantile Exchange.

Atlanta metro facilities

Our facilities offer low-latency network routes to Washington, D.C., Miami and Dallas, as well as a gateway to the Equinix global platform of 200 data centers in 52 metros, enabling an extended geographic reach well past the region. In addition, connectivity to Google Cloud Platform, Microsoft Azure and Office 365, and Vrtela via the Equinix Cloud Exchange™ allows quick and direct access to cloud services worldwide. Interconnection is vital to success in a digital economy, and Equinix Atlanta delivers it wherever our customers need to be.
